

Previously Published Articles

Authors who submit articles must provide a description of any prior publication, including the date and location (e.g., social media, company blog, another magazine).

By submitting an article, an author is representing that the original publisher/copyright holder has given reprint permission in writing. This reprint permission must be submitted with the article, along with any special text to be used in the attribution.

OC View primarily publishes original material. However, previously published articles are occasionally accepted if:

- The article otherwise meets OC View standards, including relevancy, grammar, and punctuation;
- The article is not simultaneously being published in another trade journal; and
- Prior publication was for a different audience (e.g., national publication) or for company promotion (e.g., website blog).
